

BILL FISHOFF

(pROUD) I could've named all of my business interests after my wife Honeybell who means the world to me or my son Riley who I am ever so proud of. (wiping tears away) Listen to me and I'm not exaggerating or anything when I say this but, everything I have, my homes, my businesses, my standing in the community, shoot, I owe it all to my beloved Fancy.

laTER Bill Fishoff comes to the lectern for the funeral of his dog Fancy. It's the same dialogue now only distarught

BILL FISHOFF

(CRYING) I could've named all of my business interests after my wife Honeybell who means the world to me or my son Riley who I am ever so proud of. (wiping tears away) Listen to me and I'm not exaggerating or anything when I say this but, everything I have, my homes, my businesses, my standing in the community, shoot, I owe it all to my beloved Fancy.

Honeybell and Riley come up to offer comfort and support.

Suddenly, amidst the tears, a man dressed in a white suit entering the chapel.

FATHER MERV

As I live and breathe-it's Psychic Bobby, the telepathic bounty hunter from Wichita Falls!!

BILL FISHOFF

You found the son of a bitch who did this? Who is he? Where is he?

PSYCHIC BOBBY

Well Mr. Fishoff, as to the "who is he," I followed the telltale tire tracks leading from your inanimate, heck, pulverized poodle to the Roadster Motel, where a stranger in town was registered under the name of Roscoe Des Moines, a real shifty sort of loner type and a voracious reader of menus I've since learned. He was spotted eating in your very diner the night of the kill.

BILL FISHOFF

That dog slaughterer eating my chow? Life, oh a feast of unthinkable cruelty, served with a side of woe. So where is the little sadist now?

PSYCHIC BOBBY

After sitting with Fancy's blanket fibers, I found Mr. Des Moines' off-white sedan, abandoned just outside of the Coronado National Forest.

BILL FISHOFF

This man needs to be brought to swift and unforgiving justice.
